1
PAR 4

A drive to the right center is ideal on this friendly opening hole. The uphill approach shot finds a narrow green with collection areas around the back.

3 PAR 5

This par 5 requires a drive to the left center of the fairway. A fairway wood second shot must be accurate as the hole narrows near the green. A long-to-mid iron lay-up short of the bunkers, leaving a short approach, might prove to be a wiser choice.

PAR 3

Green Depth:
38 yards

Take at least one club less to allow for the drop in elevation. A left pin position requires a longer carry over the bunker. The right side is receptive to a run-up shot.

PAR 4

Drive the tee shot straight between the bunkers. Approach shots are best to the right side of the green.

Yardage 436 403 382 321

6

PAR 4

Don't be intimidated by the length of this hole. Let the ball fly to this wide fairway. The generous opening to the green is receptive to run-up shots.

7

PAR 3

Green Depth:
36 yards

Choose one more club hitting to this slightly elevated green. If you miss the green on the right side, you face a difficult up and down.

Yardage  182  165  155  131

8

PAR 4

The view from this hole exemplifies Rees Jones - elevated fairways and deep bunkers. Drive the tee shot deep to the center of the fairway for your best chance at par.

PAR 5

Green Depth:
38 yards

Long hitters can drive over the right fairway bunker. The second shot is critical as the water hazard comes into play. A soft and high approach shot keeps your ball on the green.

11

PAR 5

This long, uphill par 5 plays like a true three-shot hole. Keep the drive to the right side of the bunker. Your best-hit fairway wood sets up a mid- to short-iron approach to an uphill green.

PAR 4

Off the tee, favor the left side on this narrowing fairway to leave yourself a good second shot. Precision is the key with plenty of room to the left. Short right is no bargain around this green.

PAR 3

Green Depth:
26 yards

The longest par 3 on the course will test your nerves with a tee shot over the ravine. Going toward the back part of the green offers a better chance to save par.

PAR 4

The landing area is roomier than it appears from the tee, so drive the ball to the right side of the bunker. Your second shot should favor the right side of this green to avoid the large, deep bunker on the left.
